Modern slavery: What's the plan?

AUSTRALIAN CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY

Have you read Australia's National Action Plan (NAP) to Combat Modern Slavery 2020 – 2025? Join us for an exploration of the NAP from Hayley Boxall of the Australian Institute of Criminology (AIC).

The NAP is the Australian government's roadmap for action and engagement with survivors, civil society and business. It is also backed by an allocation of $4.4 million of grant funding for projects that align with its 5 national strategic priorities:

1. prevent
2. disrupt, investigate and prosecute
3. support and protect
4. partner
5. research

In this webinar Hayley will provide:

- an in-depth review of the NAP strategic priorities
- an explanation of the monitoring and evaluation framework that underpins the NAP
- information about the AIC's extensive body of research on human trafficking and modern slavery

Hayley Boxall

Panelist

Hayley Boxall is the Manager for the Violence against Women and Children (VAW&C) Research Program at the Australian Institute of Criminology. Research undertaken as part of the VAW&C Research Program focuses on domestic and family and sexual violence, child sexual abuse, and human trafficking and modern slavery, and the intersections between these forms of violence.

Since joining the Institute 10 years ago, she has published extensively on domestic and family violence (DFV). She has been responsible for the development of monitoring and evaluation frameworks and plans for a range of government programs and interventions. This includes a monitoring and evaluation framework for the Australian National Action Plan to Combat Modern Slavery. Hayley is also an experienced evaluator. She has been a primary investigator on a number of projects including the meta-evaluation of the Preventing Violence against Women and Children Program, the evaluation of the Adolescent Family Violence Program and the evaluation of the Youth Hope Program.

Jenny Stanger

Facilitator

Jenny is Executive Manager at the Anti-slavery Taskforce, Catholic Archdiocese of Sydney and a co-coordinator of the Australian Catholic Anti-slavery Network (ACAN) and Domus 8.7. Jenny has worked as a case manager and advocate for survivors of human trafficking and slavery in the United States and Australia. For ten years Jenny operated Australia's only refuge for women who have experienced human trafficking and slavery including early and forced marriage, a program of The Salvation Army. Jenny has also supported survivors in Australia to engage with policy-makers, communities, the public and their peers. She has participated in the Australian Government's National Roundtable on Human Trafficking and Slavery for a decade and has been appointed to the Modern Slavery Expert Advisory Group and consulted for the US State Department and United Nations.

As a Catholic university, ACU is not only committed to the pursuit of knowledge and academic excellence, but guided and informed by Catholic Social Teaching. We recognise the dignity of each person and look for ways to work for the common good.

We all have a part to play in honouring the inherent dignity of each human being, and this includes acting to ensure fair treatment and decent working conditions for all people. This is why ACU, along with many other Catholic organisations, is committed to tackling modern slavery at every level.

ACU welcomes the opportunity to co-sponsor this webinar series with the Anti-Slavery Taskforce, Catholic Archdiocese of Sydney to critically reflect on the challenges and opportunities confronting Australia and the world in addressing modern slavery.
