

ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE MATRIX – RESEARCH-FOCUSSED AND RESEARCH ONLY ACADEMIC CAREER PATHWAYS

Introduction

This Academic Performance Matrix (APM) is to be used in conjunction with the “Evidence of Academic Performance” to inform conversations between academic staff and their supervisors, and decisions in relation to processes, which impact the career of an academic during their employment with ACU including appointment, probation, performance review and planning, research performance review and planning, and promotion.

There is an APM for each Academic Career Pathway (ACP):

- Teaching and Research
- Teaching-focussed
- Academic Leadership/Service
- Research-focussed and Research-only (the Matrices for Research-focussed and Research-only ACP’s) are combined into one Matrix).

The information provided below explains the content of the Academic Performance Matrices (APM’s) and how they should be used:

1. Each APM for each ACP sets out expectations by academic level in relation to:
 - Qualifications;
 - Alignment with the University’s Catholic Identity and Mission;
 - General requirements; and
 - Performance Standards within the three areas of academic activity (the areas are not viewed as exclusive, but rather as having points of overlap, and apply broadly):
 - Teaching, Curriculum Development, and Scholarship of Teaching,
 - Research and Creative Works; and
 - Academic Leadership/Service.
2. Each APM references the normal contribution range for each area of academic activity drawn from the ACU Staff Enterprise Agreement (the “Agreement”) and the Academic Workload Policy.

3. Each APM is consistent with the Minimum Standards for Academic Levels (MSALs) within Schedule 3 of the Agreement.
4. The expectations (i.e. qualifications, general requirements, alignment with the University’s Catholic Identity and Mission and performance standards) are defined by academic level for each ACP. These expectations describe the normal requirements of a competent academic relevant to their academic level and ACP. The expectations will inform:
 - the development of position descriptions when recruiting for an academic position or describing an existing academic position;
 - the range of contributions that academic staff may make to the areas of academic activity at different levels and academic career pathways and the normal contribution range to academic activity by pathway; and
 - processes leading to decision-making about performance including appointment, probation, performance review and planning, promotion, etc.
5. The expectations by academic level are cumulative from Associate Lecturer (Level A) through to Professor (Level E).
6. The performance standards for each of the three areas of academic activity which are articulated within the APM’s are subject to discipline norms and the actual contribution that an individual Academic Staff member makes to areas of academic activity over time.
7. An academic staff member will normally be expected to demonstrate that they work across a broad range of the performance standards for their academic level in all areas of academic activity relevant to their ACP and discipline over time. For this reason, academic staff members and their supervisors should consider the spread of work across the areas of academic activity when planning and setting work priorities. However, it is recognised that an academic staff member may, from time to time, be granted approval to focus on particular areas of academic work (e.g. while undertaking a particular role or to support the needs of their Faculty) and therefore there is flexibility to consider this when judgements are made about whether the performance standards have been met.
